H. Anthony Chan, Ph.D., IEEE Fellow

With a career in science and technology, Anthony had personally witnessed the miraculous gift of the Eucharist which has fundamentally changed his daily life at mass, in the family, and at work. Despite a busy life, he finds time to have already presented witnesses at churches in 46 cities in 5 continents.

Without compromising to a busy life with a demanding career, he treasures an intimate relationship with Jesus and had started learning Eucharistic adoration from the saints in 1996, which continues to enrich his whole life.

After spending 15 years in research at the former AT&T Bell Labs contributing to advances in technologies, he prayed for the vocation for a lay person to teach engineers to appreciate God's gift in technologies and that human beings should use the gifts of intelligence according to God's will. He moved to South Africa in 2013 to work as professor in telecommunication at University of Cape Town to help the students in Africa, which has fallen behind the Digital Divide, to develop but also appreciate the gift of Intelligence from God.

After he later moved back to US in 2007 to continue his technology career, he started helping many churches to promote Eucharistic adoration. Besides giving witnesses, he also hosts his website: www.catholicworld.info and communicates with over 4000 people through emails about adoration.
